MANAGEMENT STATEMENT

At Filenders, we believe success is measured not only by commercial results, but also by how those results are achieved. Integrity, compliance with law, respect, transparency and accountability are the foundations of our relationships with customers, employees, business partners and the communities in which we operate.

No customer, project, revenue target or commercial opportunity may take priority over the law, ethical principles, safety or the reputation of Filenders. This Code provides a common reference point for our daily decisions and helps us choose the right course of action when circumstances are uncertain.

Every employee and manager is responsible for understanding and applying these standards and for raising potential concerns in good faith. Questions or ethics and compliance reports should be directed to compliance@filenders.com.

Integrity is not negotiable.

1. Purpose

The purpose of this Code is to establish the minimum ethical, legal and professional standards expected in all activities carried out for or on behalf of Filenders.

The Code cannot address every possible situation. Employees are expected to follow both the letter and the spirit of these standards. If there is uncertainty about whether an action is appropriate, guidance must be obtained before acting from a manager or compliance@filenders.com.

2. Scope

This Code applies to Board members, founders, managers, employees and, where relevant, representatives, consultants, agents, carriers, subcontractors, technology providers and other third parties acting for or on behalf of Filenders.

Filenders expects business partners to follow the fundamental principles of this Code or equivalent standards. The use of a third party does not remove the ethical or legal responsibilities of anyone acting on behalf of Filenders.

3. Our Core Business Principles

Filenders conducts business on the basis of honesty, integrity, professionalism, fairness, objectivity, accountability, respect, compliance and continuous improvement.

Information must be accurate and not misleading; commercial decisions must remain independent from personal interests; and every person is accountable for the consequences of their decisions and actions.

4. Compliance with Laws and Regulations

Filenders complies with applicable laws and regulations relating to trade, logistics, transportation, customs, taxation, competition, employment, data protection, sanctions, export controls, environment, health and safety in the countries where it operates or provides services.

An industry practice or customer request does not justify conduct that violates the law or this Code.

5. Zero Tolerance for Bribery and Corruption

Filenders maintains zero tolerance for bribery and corruption in all forms. No person may directly or indirectly offer, request, accept or provide a bribe, kickback, secret commission or anything of value intended to obtain an improper advantage.

This rule applies to both public-sector and private-sector transactions. Improper payments made through third parties are equally prohibited.

ZERO TOLERANCE: Bribery, corruption and improper benefits are not accepted.

6. Facilitation Payments

Unofficial or undocumented payments made to a public official to accelerate routine or administrative actions are not permitted.

Unofficial payments to expedite customs, border, port, permit or inspection procedures are prohibited. Legitimate payments made to an official authority in accordance with law and supported by an official invoice or receipt are not prohibited.

7. Gifts, Hospitality and Business Meals

Gifts, business meals and hospitality must be reasonable, transparent, lawful and connected to a legitimate business purpose. Benefits intended to influence a business decision, or that could reasonably create such an appearance, are prohibited.

Cash or cash equivalents, high-value personal gifts, inappropriate travel or holiday offers, and any benefit intended to influence procurement or tender decisions are not acceptable.

8. Conflicts of Interest

Employees must avoid situations that create, or appear to create, a conflict between personal interests and the interests of Filenders.

Potential conflicts include awarding business to a family-owned company, holding a financial interest in a supplier, receiving personal payments or services from a supplier, or consulting for a competitor. Such situations must be disclosed before any related decision is made.

9. Related-Party Transactions

Transactions with companies owned by directors, founders, employees or related persons are not automatically prohibited; however, they must be transparent, documented, competitive and consistent with market conditions.

Where appropriate, alternative quotations should be obtained and the interested person should withdraw from the decision-making process. No undisclosed or automatic commercial advantage may be granted to a related party.

10. Fair Competition

Filenders supports free and fair competition. Agreements with competitors regarding price fixing, customer or market allocation, bid coordination, capacity restriction or collective boycotts are prohibited.

Commercially sensitive information such as buying rates, customer-specific pricing, margins, strategic customer lists or future pricing plans must not be shared with competitors.

11. International Trade, Sanctions and Export Controls

Filenders complies with applicable international sanctions and export control requirements. On a risk-based basis, reviews may include the shipper, consignee, notify party, beneficial owner, cargo, HS/GTIP code, origin, final destination, end user and payment source.

Filenders does not provide services designed to circumvent, conceal or neutralize sanctions or export-control restrictions.

Higher-risk transactions may be subject to additional compliance review before operations begin.

12. Customs and Transit Integrity

All customs and transit declarations must be complete and accurate. No shipment or commercial opportunity justifies violating customs regulations.

False HS/GTIP classification, inaccurate commodity descriptions, manipulation of value or origin, falsification of documents, misleading customs declarations or misuse of a transit regime are prohibited.

No shipment or commercial opportunity justifies violating customs regulations.

13. Anti-Money Laundering

Filenders will not knowingly participate in money laundering or unlawful movement of funds. Payment instructions inconsistent with the underlying commercial transaction must be treated as risk indicators.

Payments from unrelated third parties, unexplained cash payments, complex payment chains, invoice splitting, unnecessary overpayments or requests to refund funds to a different account may be subject to finance and compliance review.

14. Responsibility to Our Customers

Filenders provides customers with accurate information, fair commercial terms, reliable operations, professional service, data security and transparent communication.

Transit time, carrier, route, service level, free time, surcharges, customs status and operational capabilities must not be intentionally misrepresented. Estimates must be identified as estimated or indicative.

15. Suppliers, Agents and Business Partners

Partner selection is not based on price alone. Compliance, capability, reliability, financial stability, service quality and commercial competitiveness should be considered together.

Business may not be awarded in exchange for personal relationships, secret commissions, personal benefits or improper gifts. Filenders may request licenses, insurance, bank-account ownership evidence, compliance declarations and corporate documentation.

16. Third-Party Due Diligence

Risk-based due diligence may be applied to new agents, customs brokers, transport companies, project logistics suppliers, consultants and other higher-risk third parties.

Due diligence may cover ownership, capability, licensing, sanctions screening, reputation, insurance, financial standing and ethical standards. If the outcome is unsatisfactory, Filenders may decline the relationship or require additional controls.

17. Subcontractors

The use of subcontractors does not remove the business partner's responsibility for the services performed. Subcontractors are expected to meet applicable legal, safety and ethical standards.

For higher-risk or sensitive activities, Filenders may require disclosure of subcontractors, prior approval, or the flow-down of equivalent compliance requirements.

18. Human Rights

Filenders respects internationally recognized human rights. Forced labour, modern slavery, human trafficking, unlawful child labour and inhumane working conditions are not accepted.

Business partners are expected to apply reasonable controls in their own operations and supply chains to support these principles.

19. Non-Discrimination and Equal Opportunity

Recruitment, compensation, development, training and promotion decisions should be based on merit, performance and objective criteria.

Discrimination based on characteristics protected by applicable law is prohibited. Every employee is entitled to fair and respectful treatment.

20. Harassment, Bullying and Inappropriate Conduct

Filenders does not tolerate harassment, sexual harassment, bullying, intimidation, threats, physical violence, humiliating conduct or retaliation.

Managers are responsible for supporting a professional and safe workplace, taking complaints seriously and acting to stop inappropriate conduct.

21. Labour Standards

Filenders complies with applicable employment laws and observes legal standards regarding wages, working hours, leave, social benefits and working conditions.

Forced labour, human trafficking and unlawful child labour are not accepted at any stage of our operations or supply chain.

22. Health, Safety and Security

No operation is more important than human health and safety. Accidents, injuries, unsafe conditions, security breaches and operational hazards must be reported without delay.

Heavy lift, OOG, project cargo, warehouse, loading/unloading and road operations require appropriate risk assessment, suitable equipment and competent personnel.

SAFETY FIRST: No operation is more important than human health and safety.

23. Dangerous Goods and Restricted Cargo

Dangerous goods and restricted commodities may be handled only in accordance with applicable law, carrier requirements, safety standards and required permits.

Cargo descriptions, classifications or documents must never be altered or disguised to avoid transport, safety, customs, sanctions or regulatory restrictions.

24. Environment and Sustainability

Filenders recognizes the environmental impact of logistics and seeks to reduce it through route optimization, multimodal solutions, technology, energy efficiency, emission awareness and responsible resource use.

Business partners are expected to comply with applicable environmental laws and support reasonable measures that reduce environmental impact.

25. Accuracy of Financial Records

All financial records must be accurate, complete, timely and auditable.

False invoices, fabricated expenses, undisclosed accounts, intentional misstatement of revenue or cost, or fictitious supplier invoices are prohibited.

26. Accuracy of Commercial and Operational Records

The same standards of accuracy apply to quotations, RFQs, bookings, shipment records, customs documentation, PODs, invoices, supplier costs, selling rates, TMS records and CRM activities.

Knowingly altering, omitting or concealing material information is a violation of this Code.

27. Protection of Confidential Information

Confidential information includes customer data, supplier and buying rates, selling rates, margins, contracts, shipment records, commercial strategies, financial information, technology, software architecture and source code.

Confidential information may be used only for legitimate business purposes. Confidentiality obligations continue after employment or engagement with Filenders ends.

Confidential information may be used only for legitimate business purposes.

28. Data Protection and Privacy

Filenders processes personal data in accordance with applicable data-protection laws and principles. Personal data should be used only for lawful purposes, to the extent necessary, and by authorized persons.

Unauthorized access, disclosure, loss or misuse of personal data is prohibited. Suspected data breaches must be reported without delay.

29. Cybersecurity

Employees must remain alert to password security, phishing, malware, suspicious links, unauthorized software and unauthorized data transfers.

Any cybersecurity incident or credible suspicion must be promptly reported to the relevant manager, technology team or compliance@filenders.com.

30. Responsible Use of Filentech and Technology

All users are responsible for the accuracy, confidentiality and security of information stored in Filentech and other Filenders digital systems.

Unauthorized access, deletion or alteration of data, credential sharing, or unauthorized export of customer information is prohibited.

31. Responsible Use of Artificial Intelligence

Artificial intelligence tools may be used to improve productivity and decision support, but confidential customer data, personal data, contracts, supplier pricing and internal financial information must not be entered into unapproved platforms.

AI-generated critical commercial, legal or operational information must be subject to appropriate human review before being sent to customers, suppliers or public authorities.

32. Use of Company Assets

Computers, phones, vehicles, payment cards, corporate accounts, software licenses and other company assets must be used responsibly and primarily for legitimate business purposes.

Company assets must not be used for personal gain, unlawful activity, improper benefit or to provide an unfair advantage to a third party.

33. Intellectual Property

Filenders trademarks, software, source code, algorithms, business processes, documentation, databases and methodologies are protected intellectual property.

The intellectual property rights of third parties must also be respected. Unlicensed or unauthorized use is not permitted.

34. Document and Record Retention

Records must be retained in accordance with applicable law, contractual obligations and company retention requirements.

Documents relevant to an existing or reasonably anticipated lawsuit, audit, customs review, regulatory investigation or dispute must not be deleted, altered or destroyed.

35. Social Media and Corporate Communications

Employees may express personal views on social media, but they may not make unauthorized statements on behalf of Filenders or disclose confidential company, customer or supplier information.

Media, press and formal corporate statements may be made only by authorized persons.

36. Political Activities

Filenders respects the right of employees to hold and express personal political views and to participate in lawful political activities in a personal capacity.

Filenders name, funds, facilities, systems or other resources may not be used for unauthorized political purposes, and personal political views must not be presented as the corporate position of Filenders.

37. Reporting Ethics and Compliance Concerns

Employees, managers and business partners are encouraged to report concerns involving bribery, corruption, fraud, conflicts of interest, customs manipulation, sanctions risk, harassment, data breaches, financial irregularities, supplier misconduct or safety violations.

Definitive proof is not required to raise a concern; a reasonable good-faith concern is sufficient. Official reporting channel: compliance@filenders.com.

Ethics & Compliance Reporting: compliance@filenders.com

38. Non-Retaliation

No person who asks a question, raises a concern in good faith or participates in an investigation may be subjected to dismissal, demotion, threats, bullying, compensation or career disadvantage, or any other form of retaliation.

Retaliation is itself a serious violation of this Code.

39. Cooperation with Investigations

Persons involved in ethics, compliance or internal-control reviews conducted by Filenders are expected to provide truthful information, preserve relevant records and avoid obstructing the review.

Destroying records, changing evidence, making false statements or pressuring witnesses is prohibited.

40. Audits and Business Partner Compliance

Filenders may request business partners to demonstrate compliance with this Code or equivalent standards. This may include document requests, compliance questionnaires, corrective actions or risk-based audits.

Serious, repeated or unresolved violations may result in suspension or termination of the business relationship.

41. Violations and Disciplinary Action

Violations of this Code or applicable law may result in warnings, disciplinary measures, termination of employment, suspension of a supplier or partner, termination of contract, legal action or reporting to competent authorities where required.

Job title, seniority or commercial performance does not create an exception to this Code.

42. Management Responsibility

Managers are responsible not only for their own conduct but also for helping establish the right ethical and compliance culture within their teams.

Managers must lead by example, encourage questions, take reports seriously, prevent retaliation and avoid creating unethical targets or pressure.

43. Training

Employees are expected to understand this Code and the compliance policies relevant to their roles. Risk-based training may include anti-bribery, sanctions, customs compliance, data protection, cybersecurity and competition law.

Participation in required training and maintaining appropriate awareness form part of each employee's responsibilities.

44. Business Partner Responsibility

Filenders expects business partners to maintain reasonable systems addressing ethical business conduct, human rights, anti-bribery, safety, environment, data protection and compliance with applicable law.

Business partners should also seek to ensure that comparable standards are applied by subcontractors engaged in their services.

45. Review of the Code

This Code is reviewed periodically and may be updated in response to changes in law, international standards, the business model, technology and the risk environment.

The current version will be published through corporate channels determined by Filenders. Questions regarding the Code may be directed to compliance@filenders.com.

46. Filenders Decision Test

When unsure about an action, ask: Is it legal? Is it consistent with Filenders policies? Is it honest and fair? Could I explain it openly to the customer and management? Would public disclosure damage Filenders' reputation? Would we accept everyone acting in the same way?

If any answer is unclear: STOP - ASK - VERIFY - THEN ACT. When in doubt, contact compliance@filenders.com before proceeding.

STOP - ASK - VERIFY - THEN ACT.

CONCLUSION & COMMITMENT

Filenders aims not only to build a successful global logistics and technology company, but also to build a sustainable organization that earns the trust of customers, employees, business partners and the communities in which we operate.

Trust, integrity and compliance are long-term business assets. Commercial growth must never take priority over lawful and ethical conduct.

Integrity is not negotiable.
